

"An Urban Street Bazaar comes to Uptown!"

Make out like a bandit with one-of-a-kind crafts

May 16, 2006 (Dallas, TX)

On June 2nd, Dallas will experience the first Urban Street Bazaar sponsored by Make, Your Creative Outlet studio and boutique. The three-day event will kick-off on Friday, June 2nd at 5:30pm and will feature local emerging designers and artists who will be selling their handcrafted creations like handbags, garments, accessories, jewelry, furniture, baby wear, ceramics, pet and home accessories and much more! This sure isn't your Granny's country craft fair.

The Urban Street Bazaar, which is highlighted in Lucky Magazine's Event Guide, will be shutting down Thomas Avenue for weekend long event. The event's silent auction will partially benefit the Crohns & Colitis Foundation and the entire weekend is free to the public. Shoppers will enjoy exclusive discounts, a silent auction, and free craft demonstrations along with hands on projects like fused glass pendants.

While Make regularly hosts classes in do-it-yourself urban crafts such as sewing, floral design, and screen printing, this Bazaar creates an opportunity for local designers and urban crafters alike to showcase their work. Featuring more than 35 designers like CoCo Couture, Beth's Addiction, Designs by D, De Plata Pura, Pinkie Promise, Barbara Mabli, Alamode Jewelry Design, Endless Possibilities, ENJU Furniture, Juxtapose Designs, YogaBloomers, Billie Jo Retro, and Bead Sprouts, shoppers and browsers alike are sure to be among the first to discover the next big thing.

The Urban Street Bazaar will debut on Friday from 5pm to 8:30pm and be open Saturday and Sunday from 11am to 7pm. For more detailed information, photo opportunities, and/or high-resolution pictures on Make or the Urban Street Bazaar, please contact Julie Kim, 214-256-3061, or visit www.UrbanStreetBazaar.com

###